

Springfield Mass. Jan. 13. 1856

Mr Garrison:

Sir, I find the following, ^{from your pen,} in the last number of the "Standard" copied into that paper from the "Empire" published in London, England and Edited by George Thompson Esq.

My object in calling your attention to this last effort to injure, is respectfully to ask you (if not incompatible with your chosen mode of dealing with me) to point out in the pages of my Bondage and my freedom, the offensive portions of the Book to which you refer, that the Readers of the "Standard" and the "Empire" may read and judge for themselves, of the justice of your denunciations. ~~that all.~~

Respectfully yours -

William Lloyd Garrison Esq.

Frederick Douglass.
